BOARD OF REVENUE'S FINAL ACTION IS EXPECTED IN MARCH

Committee Delays Action On Shoals Resolution

DENEEN WILL GET OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLAIN POSITION

Commission Chief To Discuss Report On Leasing

NORRIS READY TO BACK MOVE

Nebraskan Suggests Federal Operation For Five Years

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The senate's agriculture committee today agreed to withhold action on the McNary resolution, creating a joint Muscle Shoals commission, to devise a policy for disposition of the property until Chairman Deneen, of the former commission, was permitted to explain to the senate the report of his commission, recommending acceptance of the power companies' leasing proposal.

After Senator Deneen explains the report, he will move for its immediate consideration and Chairman McNary, of the senate agriculture committee, plans to counter with a motion to refer the whole subject back to his committee.

If the Deneen move fails, Senator Norris, advocate of government operation of Muscle Shoals, is prepared to offer a measure providing for the completion of the power units at Muscle Shoals at an estimated cost of $13,000,000, and for government operation of the fertilizer units for five years to determine if fertilizer production is practical.

Should the Norris proposal fail, the McNary resolution will be brought forward again. After this meeting, Senator McNary declared that the committee decided that "they were going a little fast" in presenting the resolution as Senator Deneen should be given an opportunity to be heard by the senate.

HOUSE LAUGHS AT SOLONS' BATTLES

Levy Replaces The Usual Tenseness At Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The recent fistie lapses of some members of congress have produced a paradoxical aftermath.

Instead of tightening the tension that always plagues the closing days of a session, fights and rumors of fights have mellowed the pre-adjournment interlude with levity.

House members in particular are getting an unusual kick out of the process of laughing off the sobriquet of "the fighting 69th" congress, a non-reguerre that travelled a path of meriment today about committee rooms and corridors. Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, which has before it two resolutions to prescribe a code of ethics for members who use their fists said today he had set no date for a hearing because he was reluctant to expose his committee to the "dangers" that might be entailed.

"You can say for me," he said, "that when the army provides adequate protection for the committee we will take up the resolutions."

PART OF CALIFORNIA IS WATER-BOUND

TWENTY MEN CHEER AS DOG IS RELEASED FROM PRISON

Feverish Work To Release The Animal Is Dramatically Ended As Life Of Pet Is Spared As Reward.

WOODRUFF, S. C., Feb. 17.—(AP)—"Ring," a little dog held fast by a rock in a narrow underground passageway for 110 hours, walked from his prison just before dawn and bounded into the arms of his master.

Twenty men who through the night had worked with pick and shovel paused expectantly while Willie Nelson, 19, crawled into the passageway at 3:45 o'clock. He made his way to where the dog was lodged and pulled the little animal free with an iron hook.

A moment later the dog bounded past Willie and out into the open. Twenty hats went up and shouts split the countryside as F. C. Kelly, farmer, gathered "Ring" in his arms and wrapped his overcoat about him.

It was a happy cavalcade that quit the scene. Kelly, careful that "Ring" was comfortable in his arms carried his pet home for some hot milk, the first meal for the dog since last Thursday, when he chased a fox into the passageway and became imprisoned. The fox was removed yesterday dead. Ring had killed him.

SMITH WILL NOT BE SEATED IN SENATE

Elected Senator Is Unable To Attend Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Any hope that Frank L. Smith of Illinois will be seated in the Senate at this session of congress disappeared today when the election committee was advised by his counsel that illness would prevent the Senator designate from coming before the committee.

The short term for which Smith was appointed expires March 4. The committee previously had decided not to seat him, pending hearings on his campaign expenditures at which he was requested to be present. The hearings were to have begun today, but Smith's counsel asked for indefinite postponement.

GOVERNOR PEAY IS EXPECTED TO LIVE

Progress Of His Case Satisfactory, Say Physicians

NASHVILLE, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Governor Austin Peay, ill since Tuesday with pneumonia, is expected by his physicians to recover, unless complications develop. The nine o'clock bulletin of physicians says:

"While Governor Peay did not sleep as well as anticipated Wednesday night, his pulse, temperature and respiration indicate he has probably passed the crisis, barring complications he should have a satisfactory convalescence."

Jury Commission Finishes Its Job

The Morgan county jury commission, which has been engaged for about six weeks in tabulating a new list of jurors for this county, concluded its task today. About 2,500 names were placed in the jury box, this total comparing very favorably with other years.

Local officials today were making a drive to enforce provisions of the municipal law, requiring that permits be taken for new buildings. Johnston street officials, this morning, made a survey of the city finding a number of construction projects underway without permits having been taken.

MAN IS MANGLED UNDER THE WHEELS OF FREIGHT TRAIN

Accident Occurs At One o'clock Today At Hartselle

BOTH LEGS AND ARM SEVERED

Citizens Searching For Companions Of Unfortunate

An unidentified white man was horribly mangled today near one o'clock when he lost his footing and plunged beneath a north bound Louisville & Nashville freight train, just north of Hartselle.

According to word received here three men attempted to hop the northbound freight, two being successful and the third losing his footing. He lost both legs and an arm. Particles of flesh were strewn for a distance of forty yards up the track, witnesses declared.

Hartselle physicians were called immediately, but held little hope for the recovery of the unfortunate man. Physicians expected every breath to be his last.

The freight train was brought to a stop so soon as the accident was discovered.

The only mark of identification found on the man was declared to have been a small pocketbook.

Hartselle citizens continued to search for the companions of the man this afternoon, hoping that identification might be established by his alleged companions.

NO STATEMENT ON BRIDGE SITUATION

Some Men Employed On Project, It Is Declared

At the offices of the Koss Construction Company this afternoon, The Daily was informed no statement could be made when the company was asked if rumors of a controversy with the state highway department were true.

The Daily's informant, at the Koss offices said: "Mr. Hinds is not here today, but is expected back tomorrow. In his absence, I would not care to make any statement for the public."

From the same source, The Daily was informed that some men still are at work on the project.

Kiwanis Plan An Unusual Meeting

Decatur Kiwanis club has planned an unusually interesting meeting tonight when members of the club will have business associates as their guests. The evening meeting, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, is known as "Employers and Employees night," promising to be one of the happiest get-together events in the history of the local club.

Non-Jury Docket Now Being Heard

HEFLIN AGAIN IN SHARP EXCHANGE WITH SEN. BRUCE

Religious Issue Today Thrust Into Debate On Senate Floor

ALABAMIAN TO MAKE A REPLY

Maryland Solon And Sen. Heflin Renew Verbal Attacks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Senator Heflin, of Alabama, again was told by one of his democratic colleagues today that the senate had heard enough of the religious issue.

When the Alabamian accused Senator Bruce, Maryland, of seeking to consolidate the French spoliation bill with the bonus loan bill, Bruce replied:

"The senator from Alabama has indulged in the loose and lavish inaccuracy which marks pretty nearly all of his utterances. He accuses me of bringing in a bill 100 years old and I might say that he has brought in here an issue 600 years old—the religious issue."

"I'm going to have something to say to the senator about that issue later," returned Heflin.

"No doubt, the senator will," retorted Bruce. "He never knows when he has spoken enough."

The Alabamian senator fulfilled his promise soon afterward, renewing his attack on the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic clergy and the newspapers.

McNary-Haugen Bill Wins Point

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The house today refused to substitute the Aswell farm relief bill for the McNary-Haugen farm relief measure. The vote against substitution was 160 to 144.

Although a second vote on the Aswell bill may come later, today's action narrowed the fight more closely between the Curtis bill and the McNary-Haugen bill and gave the first preliminary test of strength as between two rival bills.

Shelton Appointed To Chairmanship

L. B. Musgrove, Alabama chairman of the William Jennings Bryan Memorial association, today announced the appointment of B. C. Shelton, newspaper man, as Morgan county chairman of the drive for funds with which a Bryan memorial will be built. Alabama's quota is placed at $5,000. The campaign is placed on the basis of one dollar per contributor.

Birmingham Post The Loser In Contest With the State

The Decatur American Legion post, in its February membership drive, increased its membership 433 per cent, according to figures released from state headquarters in Montgomery, the record made by the local post attracting interest all over the South.

The Birmingham post, which had challenged the remainder of the state, offering to enlist as many new members as the entire state, lost when the tabulations showed that the Magic City Legionnaires had under-estimated the activities of their fellow-ex-servicemen in other sections of Alabama.

Congress Plans Sessions At Night

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The senate will begin its pre-adjournment grind of night sessions next Monday.

At that time it will consider bills authorizing government loans on soldiers bonus certificates and for the return of alien property. An effort to obtain unanimous consent to take up also the administration's prohibition reorganization bill, failed.

FIVE THOUSAND IN FLOODED SECTIONS WITHOUT HOMES

Property Damage Is Untold, Declare Observers

DEATH LIST REACHES 21

San Diego Is Almost Entirely Isolated By High Water

(By The Associated Press)

Southern part of state flood bound as the result of four days of unprecedented rain and snow.

Five thousand persons homeless, after fleeing from high water in Venice, Long Beach, Los Angeles and San Diego and smaller towns.

Death list reached 21, as toll in snow slide near Fresno was swelled to 13.

Property damage untold. Ten million dollars damage to bridges in Los Angeles alone, total probably will reach several millions.

Nearly every railroad and highway in district blocked. Limited train service started from Los Angeles east.

San Diego almost completely isolated with high water threatening for a time the residential district and marine base.

Flood conditions prevailed in at least 20 cities with seven of them badly inundated.

Continued rain, promised for today and another storm approaching from the ocean.

Two Bodies Found In Chicago Street

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Two bodies of a young woman and a man were found in the street today under circumstances which led police to believe it a case of murder and suicide.

The body of Miss Minnie Glick, hat company employe, was found on a sidewalk, 30 feet away from that of D. L. Rosenthal, 31. Both had been shot through the head and Rosenthal's hand touched a pistol.

Rosenthal was married and the father of one child.

Police said Miss Glick was a sister of Mrs. Rosenthal. Mrs. Rosenthal said her husband left home at eight o'clock last night, saying he would return in 10 minutes.

The bodies were found seven blocks from the Rosenthal home.

REVENUE BOARD SETTLES UPON BUILDING PLAN

No Contract Is Let For Rebuilding Courthouse

ACTION LIKELY IN NEXT MONTH

Board Adjourns On Wednesday After Long Session

The Morgan county board of revenue is of the one opinion concerning the courthouse problems which has been facing the county since November 12 last, when the courthouse was gutted by an early morning fire. The Board of Revenue is planning to rebuild the burned structure as nearly like the original plan as possible. This information was gained late Wednesday following the adjournment of the board.

Action may be expected early in March, the architect, Ben Price, Birmingham, expecting to have his plans completed by that time.

The consensus of opinion, according to information given the Daily, is to replace the old building, putting on a flat roof and leaving off the cupola, or clock tower. It was stated following the fire that defective wiring in the cupola was the cause for the blaze which completely destroyed the building several months ago.

No contracts, nor a written decision has been entered into by the board of revenue, according to reports and it is regarded as likely that the work will not be done on contract basis.

Costs of the replaced plant have been variously estimated, the first figure being placed between $60,000 and $70,000.

How long a period will be required for rebuilding the structure remains a matter of guesswork, the county's business being continued in the Aycock building, corner Davis and Ferry streets until the new building is ready for occupancy.

The commissioners, J. J. Gurley, Adlai Sample, A. K. Frost and Frank J. Davis wrestled with the courthouse plan for three days of the week, calling in J. W. Frank, local builder, for consultation and having the ideas of Mr. Price before them for consideration. They were seeking the most economical plan for building purposes, in order that the county road funds might not be depleted through the act of the new structure.

STANDARD BALES OF COTTON, PLAN

Regulation Proposed For Gins Sending Out Staple

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—A bill proposing to standardize bales of cotton intended for interstate commerce at 500 net pounds to the bale was introduced today by Senator Ransdell, democrat, Louisiana.

The measure also would declare all gins, where cotton is prepared for interstate commerce, as public utilities and would authorize the secretary of agriculture to prepare uniform regulations for their operation.

Miller Lawyer Waives Defense

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP)—There will be "no defense" for Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, it was announced when the Daugherty-Miller trial opened this afternoon. When counsel Aaron Spairo, counsel for Miller, waived his opening address.

Facing the court, Spairo said: "your honor the government having failed to prove a conspiracy against the defendant, Miller, his defense rests."

CURB MARKET FIGURES MADE PUBLIC FOR ALABAMA CITIES

SUCCESS FOR FARM HEADS RESULTS IN ALABAMA MARKET

Three Cities Over The State Planning For Opening

FIGURES ARE CONVINCING

County Interests Are Preparing For The Opening Here

Interesting figures regarding the results of curb markets over the state, hopes in various sections for curb markets, were made known today by the Associated Press in a dispatch from Auburn, Auburn, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Curb markets, to sell miscellaneous farm and home products direct to consumers are now starting or being planned at Dothan, Union Springs and Decatur, and have already been successfully operated in Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Selma, Anniston and Opelika, officials of the state board of agriculture here have announced. The plan has been generally well received throughout Alabama they said and leaders in other towns of the state are considering the establishment of similar markets.

The Tuscaloosa curb market has been operating two and a half years and up to December 1, 1926, it had done a volume of business reaching the total of $82,963, being the sales of 11,539 farm people to 59,000 customers. In one day 97 people sold 197 different products on this market, they said.

The Gadsden curb market started after the Tuscaloosa market but sales up to December 31 totaled $70,000. One farmer was making sales averaging $60 a week. From May 1 to December 1, 1926, the Gadsden curb market enabled 161 farm families to sell products for $18,000, they said.

The Opelika and Selma markets have handled large quantities of products also, and an unique feature of them is that where these markets are properly managed they invariably succeed, the agricultural officials commented.

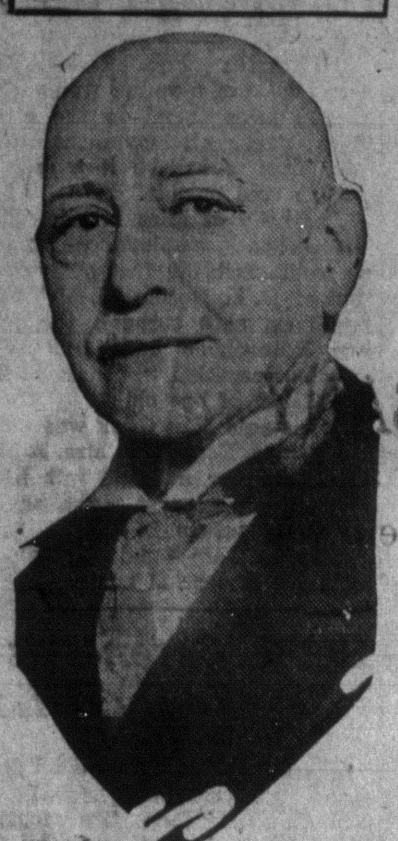

The established markets were sponsored by county agents, the farm bureaus, chambers of commerce, newspapers, civic clubs and other groups, they said, and encouraged farmers to produce more by providing a good market for what they had to sell. At the same time a distinct service was rendered to consumers in the towns, while merchants were indirectly assisted by the increase of money going into circulation.

Plans Here While other cities are reporting gigantic sales, all proceeds going into the pockets of farmers and merchants, Decatur is planning carefully for the opening of the market here on March 5.

County farm authorities have made no prediction regarding the number of producers to be expected here on the opening day, but members of the permanent curb committee are preparing to receive between twenty and thirty producers. The market will grow with the days, dependent upon the interest shown by local housewives, many of whom have declared that they are only awaiting the market opening to purchase Morgan county products.

Added Feature At Princess Theatre Leo Bailey and his Country Boys, musical acts, blackface comedians, singers and dancers, are appearing at the Princess theatre tonight for the first time. The company is scheduled at the local playhouse for the remainder of the week. The company is offered along with the regular picture program.

Why the Handsome Fireman Sued the $10,000,000 "Bachelor Girl"

THE GIRL. Alice De Lamar, $10,000,000 Heiress, Who Paid $30,000 to a Fireman Injured in Her Garage Fire.

A spark brought them together. No, expectant reader, this is not a romance, in the Michael Arlenian sense of the term. For they did not fall in love and live happily for an indeterminate period thereafter. Instead the hero got blown up on the heroine's premises, for and in consideration of which he got $30,000 of the heiress's $10,000,000.

But if it had not been for that spark, lucky or unlucky—if it had happened in an East Side basement instead of a lady Croesus's garage—this story would be less dramatic.

The heroine, as you may have guessed from the picture, is Miss Alice Antoinette De Lamar, who inherited $10,000,000 from her father, Joseph Rafael De Lamar, the nickel-plate magnate, who gave to charity $3,500,000 more which she could have had for the asking, and has turned down so many suitors, including one of royal blood, that she won the nickname of society's "bachelor girl."

The hero is Thomas Murtagh, former battalion chief of the New York Fire Department. The point of contact of their once widely divergent paths was the garage of Miss De Lamar's town house at No. 143 East Fortieth Street, New York. Fire had been discovered in the small building that houses Miss De Lamar's four automobiles, and Murtagh and his comrades, in the line of duty, answered the alarm. Murtagh ventured into the basement of the garage, where the trouble seemed to be centering. He did not know that there was a gasoline storage tank there, or that the tank had given previous indications of having a leak. He later contended in court that C. F. Brown, caretaker of the house during the absence of its owner in Florida, knew of the gas tank trouble and did not warn the firemen. There was a sudden blinding and deafening explosion as Murtagh disappeared into the basement. He was terribly burned and disfigured, and lay in a hospital weeks before he recovered. The Fire Department retired him on a pension, but that was poor compensation. His friends advised him to sue Miss De Lamar, on the ground that his injuries were due to the negligence of her caretaker in not warning the firemen of the leaking gasoline tank. Murtagh sued for $150,000. The case came to trial, continued for a week, and then Murtagh's lawyer announced there had been a settlement—Miss De Lamar was to pay him $30,000.

Perhaps, with all her millions, Miss De Lamar could have beaten Murtagh's suit eventually. But then, perhaps, it was much more satisfying to lose!

CANCER INCREASE WORRIES MEDICS, HUNT NEW CURES

Fear Of The Disease Is Seen As A Great Factor

By CHARLES A. SMITH International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—Cancer is definitely on the increase, but it can be cured. There is only one disease worse than cancer, and that is the fear of cancer. Knowledge will bring freedom from that fear.

With these remarks Sir Berkeley Moynihan, President of the Royal College of Surgeons, and one of England's greatest cancer experts opened the first of a series of public lectures on the fundamental causes and treatment of cancer.

The series are noteworthy for the fact that this is the first time in the history of the English medical profession that the public has been taken into its confidence.

"If the law of averages holds good," continued Sir Berkeley, "one hundred people in this hall tonight will die of cancer," a statement which caused little nervous ripples of laughter, to run round the lecture hall.

"The truth is," continued Sir Berkeley, "that in this country alone one person of every seven dies over the age of thirty of cancer; fifty thousand people die yearly in England and Wales, and it has been estimated that 500,000 lives are annually lost in the civilized countries of the world from this disease."

"Cancerous bones, dating from 3,500 years before Christ, have been taken from tombs near the Pyramids; cancer was described more than twenty centuries ago by Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, and it has never since ceased taking its daily toll of lives. It is the Captain of the Men of Death, the King of Terror to the world."

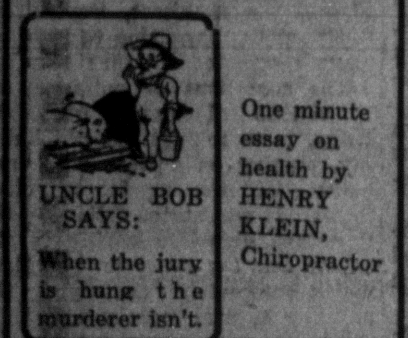

"If the medical profession can help the public to learn that it is not cancer, but ignorance with regard to cancer, that is in part responsible for their horror of it; and if we can assure them that cancer, under certain conditions, is capable of complete removal, shall we not be able to diminish or even banish fear?"

"Cancer mortality is increasing despite the fact that more people than ever are being cured of the disease. It may surprise many to hear that cancer can be cured; that the patient can be relieved forever from the disease. It is true."

"The operations practiced today are more frequent, of greater extent, of greater safety, and are attended by a larger measure of permanent relief from the disease than was the case twenty years ago."

NEURITIS AND ITS RELIEF

The word neuritis signifies "nerve inflammation" or "nerve-fever." The condition present in neuritis is substantially the same as that which obtains when a strong electric current travels through the fine wire of low carrying capacity and high resistance.

There is heat which is destructive of the nerve filament and results in great pain. The only corrective is to remove the cause, which Chiropractic finds in spinal pressure that has diminished the normal carrying capacity of the nerve. Adjustments result.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the head, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, small and large intestines, and the lower organs of the body.

ATHENS CITIZENS BACK SCOUT PLAN

Girl Scouts Are Given Site For Camp, Rooms Free

By D. L. ROSENAU, JR.

The Limestone County Troop of Girl Scouts was this week presented a permanent camp site by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. McDaniel, the gift being made in honor of their only child and daughter, Madeline McDaniel, and the camp to be named the Madeline McDaniel Girl Scout Camp. The land covered in the deed is ideally situated for scouting purposes, being convenient to streams, forests, and general nature. The deed was received by Miss Ethel McConnell, local scout director, with an appropriate talk. Work will be started soon towards beautifying the land and fitting it up for permanent camping purposes.

Mr. Carl Martin, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, recently donated a large room over the bank to be used by the troop as its headquarters.

976 Pay Poll Tax—Nine hundred and seventy-six persons paid their poll taxes in Limestone County for 1927 before the books were closed. Of these sixty included back taxes, and a number were paid up by persons who had not paid or voted in years. As provided by law all poll taxes go to the taxpayer's school district.

Athens College To Play Auburn—The Athens College basketball team is scheduled to play the Auburn girls' team at the college courts here Saturday morning.

Auburn is rated as one of the strongest teams in the conference, and particular interest is attached to this game in that both teams clashed before Christmas on the Auburn court where Athens held the Auburnites down to a 11-8 score. The Athens lineup will probably be, center, Jones, (captain); forwards, Scott and Wilcoxson; guards, Henders and Murphy.

Would Have Lovers Acquainted For Six Months, Then Marry

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 17.

(AP)—Representative Howard of Augusta county, believes that when people get married they ought to know something about one another.

To insure this condition, in order to raise the percentage of happy and successful unions in Alabama, he has introduced a bill requiring persons seeking marriage license to file with authorized officials written statements that they have been acquainted for six months.

"Any marriage contracted in violation of this statute shall be void," is the unequivocal second section of the bill, which now reposes in the fastnesses of the house judiciary committee.

No provision is made in the bill for penalty to either official violating the statute or for the couple.

GOLDEN ROADS.

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Gay Moore and her cousin, Christine Noe, are employed in the Wall Street House of Johnstone Baird, Gay as a typist and Christine as telephone operator. Christine is in love with Roger Pennington, called Penny by his intimates, whose wealth and social position appeal to her love. Stanley Baird is in love with Gay. Gay returns his love, but knowing of the friendship existing between Johnstone Baird and a woman known as the "Lilac Lady" fears that Stanley will inherit his father's vices and grows doubtful of his love for her. Christine encourages the attentions of Ivor Barclay to arouse Penny's jealousy. She goes to a roadhouse of doubtful reputation with Barclay, but Gay overhearing the plan, enlists the aid of Stanley and goes after Christine. Christine, humiliated, is taken home. Gay while looking for Christine inadvertently opens the door of a private room in the roadhouse and discovers Johnstone Baird and the "Lilac Lady" dining alone. She fears Mr. Baird will misunderstand her own presence at so questionable a resort, and wonders what the consequences will be to Stanley and herself. Gay receives a note from Stanley's mother inviting her to tea. She goes and the tea ends in a scene between Johnstone Baird and Gay, in which he accuses her of marrying Stan for his money. Gay tells him she wouldn't marry Stan. However, Stan convinces her of his love, leaves home and takes a position as automobile mechanic. She hears nothing from him until Christmas. Suddenly Penny tells Gay that Stan is ill. She goes to him in the hospital. Stan's family raise a row and disown him when they discover he has been working in such a humble position. However, Gay and Stan make plans for their wedding, which takes place in February, and after a short honeymoon, they return to the city, as Stan wants to get back to work as quickly as possible.

CHAPTER 25
Penny wanted them to take his apartment for a few weeks until they could find a place of their own and settle down. It was a small corner from the Park in the Eighties.

But Gay refused.

"It's much more splendid than anything we'll have for a long time, Stan," she explained. "We'd better start out just as we expect to go on. We'll go where we can live on your wages."

"But, good heavens, girl, you can't stay in that boarding house! It's for shop hands."

"Why not? I'm a shop hand's wife now. If you can live there, you bet I can, too."

He was dubious but she was determined. So they went to the boarding house to spend the first weeks of their married life and young Mrs. Baird found nothing wrong with the place.

It was up in the Bronx where there was plenty of light and air; it was clean and quiet and the food extremely plain, was well cooked. The boarders, mostly young mechanics, were bashful and likeable.

She enjoyed that brief period before she went out with Christine one day and found a tiny flat.

It was fresh with paint and new wallpaper; a small living room with an alcove for the dining table; a smaller bedroom; built-in ice box in the kitchen; the smallest imaginable square of hall at the front. Gay's eyes shone.

"But it's on a court," Christine grumbled. "And a walk-up. And the bath-tub's chipped."

"What does it matter, Chris? The rent is low and Stan's work is upturn here. Why, I hardly can wait to move it!"

She paid a month's rent—it left her purse woefully thin. And Saturday afternoon, Stanley having a half-holiday, they went to a house-furnishing store and paid the first installment on a couple of hundred dollars' worth of things.

In the attic at Moorelands there were some lovely pieces of old furniture that had belonged to Gay's and Christine's grandmother. A few in mahogany, lustrous and mellow; some rare porcelains; a small stock of linen. The young Bairds spent Sunday there and arranged to have it sent to the flat.

"But part of it is yours, Chris," Gay told her. "You'll want it when you move into your own home some day."

"Not if I know it, ol' kid. New stuff for me and a lot spiffier than that junk. Take it all and thanks for the buggy ride."

Gay made the most of it. She managed the old things so they gave her rooms an air of distinction; she arranged them tenderly, happily; made lampshades; painted and polished; rearranged.

Finally she told Stan, who had not been allowed near the flat, that it was ready.

They packed their bags, took a street car across town, climbed four flights of stairs. She handed him the key, trembling, held her breath while he switched on the light and looked around.

She saw the astonishment in his face and laughed joyously. "You like it, boy dear?"

"Looks like a million dollars!" He went about examining things, pulling out drawers, opening cupboard doors. Finally he sat down in the wing chair—how long it had stood in the attic!—beneath the lamp, rose-shaded—how she had worked to make the silk reach all the way around!—and pulled her down upon his lap.

"It's a revelation, honey. Think of you doing so much with so little." Her face was snuggled into his neck; he kept patting her shoulder. "If I've had any doubts they're gone now. Maybe I didn't understand before how marvelous you are, Lordee—a man couldn't help making good with you back of him!"

She reached for his hand, turned it over and ran her fingers along new, rough places on the palm. "You don't mind the shop, dear? Nails all stained and broken—"

She kissed them.

"I'll say I don't. There's something about it—kind of leads you on, some way. Keeps you wondering what you can do. That new thing we're working on—"

"She fell asleep there, and he sat a long time holding her in his arms, dreaming."

While Gay was learning to broil chops to a turn and experimenting with scalloped potatoes, Christine was thinking long, bitter thoughts.

Penny was more than ever wrapped up in his work. His deep interest and the ability he had shown appealed to Johnstone Baird; now Penny was promoted to greater responsibility.

He spent longer hours at his desk and was always preoccupied, even when he sat at the luncheon table with her in the little restaurant down stairs.

She ignored his ambition—blamed everything on Peggy Baird.

American Chinese Policy Popular; Interest of Our People Safe There

BY HARRY BLOOMBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH. — Our "Open Door" policy in China has been popular with the Chinese and if the United States would give up her extra-territoriality rights this country would obtain immediate protection for American citizens in China.

This was the belief of Madame Pearl Violette Metzelthim, of Baltimore, whose husband was an attaché of the German legation in China, and she spent many years in the Orient with him. She made a close study of Chinese affairs and told visitors in a recent visit here that she believes she understands the causes and motives and possibilities of the present disorders in China.

All nations have extra-territoriality except Germany. Madame Metzelthim explained, by which foreigners are tried for crimes committed in China by judges from the countries of which they are citizens. Germany was deprived of her rights in this respect as a penalty from China following the World War.

Germans in China are designated by a yellow arm band which gives them protection by the Chinese government. Madame Metzelthim declared that no German has ever been attacked or harmed since this protection went into effect. The former German attaché's wife, argued that this situation should serve as an object lesson for our government.

The landing of British troops on land in the Orient will inflame the Chinese and the English speaking people will be endangered, Madame Metzelthim asserted. Fighting, disorders and even murders will occur, she added.

If the Chinese are left alone and allowed to settle their present trouble among themselves, Madame Metzelthim opined she would feel much safer from harm in China today than she would in a dark street after dark in some American cities.

Madame Metzelthim, compared the present China situation with that of the United States during the civil war. The Nationals and somewhat radical soldiers are from South China. The northern forces are more conservative or Monarchical. The removal of the capital from Peking in North China to Hankow in the southern part of China is one of the principal points of contention, she added.

However, Madame Metzelthim concluded, both of these factions are very patriotic and they would be united, if necessary to oppose any interference from the outside.

Childbirth

THOUSANDS of mothers have praised Mother's Friend for relieving them of unnecessary pains during expectancy. "Everyone was surprised how well I got along," writes Mrs. Alfred E. Ammon, Muncie, Ind. "My pains disappeared after using Mother's Friend and I was sick only an hour and a half at baby's birth."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It is made from a combination of highly refined oils and other wonderful ingredients and is for outward application. Mother's Friend aids the skin and muscles to expand more easily during the constant readjustment of expectancy, month after month, right up to childbirth.

Mother's Friend on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and, meanwhile, write Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. 23, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

TODAY From The Daily of February 17, 1915.
12 Years Ago
No magazines, containing liquor advertisements, will be permitted on sale here.
Club women of the Decatur are planning a trade-at-home movement.
W. T. Broadway is in Athens on business.
Alderman A. C. Teague is suffering an attack of la grippe.
C. J. Widner has returned from a trip to Gulfport, Miss., and Mobile, Ala.

Alabama hopes that Governor Peay's recovery will be both rapid and complete.
The senate and house have settled another controversy. The diplomatically inclined in Alabama's official have been kept busy lately ironing out legislative kinks.

Mrs. Chaplin, in returning to the home which she quitted in a rage some weeks ago, probably realizes by now that money, or the lack of it, may effect a material change in one's point of view.
Governor Graves shows a tender heart by his request that only a nominal fine be assessed against the 17-year-old youth who was convicted of having written a threatening letter to the chief executive, on the eve of his inauguration.

The many friends of Miss Margaret Clarkson, local artist, were gratified because of the announcement, appearing in Wednesday's edition of The Daily, that Miss Clarkson again will be heard by radio from the New York stations.

Will Rogers suggests crop rotation and fewer automobiles will "relieve" the farmers any day they decide to try it. Rogers, it will be recalled, made his reputation as a humorist and not a farmer... that's where the laugh is supposed to be.

When The Daily suggested that the pugilistically inclined solons organize a boxing commission, this newspaper admits it did not realize the suggestion would be taken seriously. No wonder Representative Blanton did not appreciate the joke, when such steps were suggested on the floor of the house.

The number of grass fires reported in Decatur during the past few weeks should be the cause of some alarm. Fortunately the time will soon be here, when the city will not be troubled greatly with those kinds of blazes, but before next year rolls around, it might be well to make some provision to eliminate this danger before next winter.

QUARANTINE LAW VIOLATION WARNED AGAINST BY McREE.

The warning from Dr. H. C. McRee, Morgan county health officer, published in The Daily Wednesday, is timely and it is hoped that readers of this newspaper studied it carefully. It is intimated that the department has received reports of failure to quarantine cases of communicable diseases. Dr. McRee points out that violations of the state health law are subject to punishment by fine and imprisonment.

The Daily feels that when citizens realize the seriousness of the situation, they will lend every degree of co-operation to the health department in preventing the spread of communicable diseases.

FOR A PERIOD, AT LEAST, VISITORS WILL BE "OUR" BASEBALL CLUB.

Soon the first members of the Minneapolis baseball party will begin arriving in Decatur for their spring training. The Daily feels that these strangers within our midst will not be strangers long, but that the hospitality of the citizens of this community will so warm their hearts that they will wish to come back again.
There is one feature which should be impressed on local people. While the Minneapolis club represents Minneapolis during the regular playing season in the American League, for a period of nearly six weeks, at least, this club will be Decatur's own. Local fandom should lend these visitors every encouragement as they take on the invading foe. Decatur should want Minneapolis to win.

Frankly, there is a selfish feature to this desire. If Minneapolis is successful in her training season, the team will build up a confidence which will aid it in meeting its schedule during the playing season. Should Minneapolis have a successful year, according to baseball tradition, that fact reflects very favorably on the city in which the club was trained.

Of course, Decatur people want their city to receive all of the credit possible. A successful year will do that. Let every local fan make up his mind now to "root" for Minneapolis, Decatur's own.

AMERICAN PLAN FOR NAVAL LIMITATIONS MEETS OBSTACLES.

The suggestion of President Coolidge that the powers meet in Geneva to decide on a plan for limitation of naval armaments is encountering many difficulties, since France flatly rejected the proposal.
The President, no doubt, was actuated by the highest motives when he issued his invitation, but the people of the United States may as well realize now as later that the world has little confidence in American idealism.

After having engaged in a war to end war, America refused to join the league of nations; America then refused to enter the World Court without so many reservations that the other members naturally refused to accede to them. Has America, since 1918, given the world any special reason to think kindly of this country?
No wonder, when America suggests a peace move, other nations do not show any disposition to co-operate.

PAGES OF KANSAS SENATE GIVE OBJECT LESSON TO SENATORS.

The Nashville Banner has been poking fun at the Kansas senate, as result of a mock session, recently held by the senate pages of that state, but much of what the Banner declares is true.

The Banner says:
"The pages of the Kansas senate assembled themselves a few days ago and held a mock session of the upper house of the legislature. It is interesting to see the laws they passed. The first measure to attract the interest of the amateur legislators was raspberry pie, and after a stormy debate it was decided that this particular brand of pastry should thereafter be unlawful in Kansas. Later along it was decreed that there should be hygienic inspection of prairie dog holes, to say nothing of a legal ban on the hiring of pretty stenographers by members of the Kansas senate. Finally the pages decreed that airplanes should not be allowed to land on the dome of the state capitol after dark. All this was by way of joke and bona fide legislators got a great deal of amusement out of it, and could have derived a seasonable warning, too, if they cared to."

"If it were possible to assemble all the pieces of foolish legislation that have been either passed or seriously considered by state legislatures, the mock statutes enacted by the pages of the Kansas senate, would look sensible by comparison. One legislator, in a state that shall be nameless, once insisted that the mathematical symbol Pi should be made exactly three instead of 3.1416 in order that the school children of this commonwealth might be relieved of the annoying necessity of puzzling over fractions. By the side of that, prohibiting raspberry pie is nothing less than Solomonian. It was once debated as to whether or not a man waving a red flag should be required to go ahead of every motorist, and it is alleged that there is a law in a state in the South requiring a motorist to post written notice ten days in advance whenever he drives his automobile down the street or along the highway. An Ohio legislator introduced a bill requiring the thermometer to go no lower than 48 degrees in winter and no higher than 78 degrees in summer, but the general impression was to the effect that he was probably joking. There is really no end to the examples that might be brought forward.
"It is to be hoped that the members of every state legislature in this country obtain and ponder the deliberations of Kansas' mock senate. It might amuse the most of them and it would certainly give them a better idea than many of them now appear to have of avoiding absurdities in lawmaking."

CANNING PLANT ORGANIZATION OFF TO GOOD START HERE.

The canning plant, talked of for so many weeks, at least appears close to reality. The meeting held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce canning plant committee and business men of Decatur Wednesday morning was productive of a splendid start toward success.

In the selection of Charles Rountree to head the movement, those interested in the establishment of a plant, picked an outstanding civic worker and business man. Mr. Rountree is a "go getter," a man who accomplishes the task he has before him. In dozens of civic undertakings his dynamic force has put them across, when the difficulties appeared great. With the selection of this citizen to lead, The Daily cannot but feel confident that the plant is assured.

The directorate which has been chosen to aid him is composed of several of the best known business men of this entire community. In their previous experiences in the business world, they have accumulated a fund of knowledge which will be a distinct advantage to the infant industry.

The canning plant here will be the first in this immediate section and, naturally, many problems will present themselves for solution. The Daily believes, however, that the present splendid spirit of co-operation, existing between Decatur and the neighboring rural sections go far toward overcoming any of the difficulties which might arise.

In connection with the proposed plant, it might not be amiss to attempt to give the public some conception of how these plants are operated and on what basis planters may expect a return. In the first place some of Morgan county farmers, accustomed to the ordinary market prices for tomatoes, will be somewhat taken back when they discover that canning plants usually pay only 40 cents a bushel for tomatoes. The price appears so ridiculously low that planters may be unable, at first glance, to realize wherein their profit can be derived.

It must not be forgotten, however, that whereas the planter ordinarily would produce only a comparatively small quantity of tomatoes for the market, under his contract with the canning plant, he would begin to deal in terms of tons instead of pounds. About $15 a ton, The Daily is advised, is the customary price paid for this product by the factories. Ordinarily, an acre of tomatoes would yield something like six or seven tons, perhaps more in a few instances. It will be seen readily that the farmer has an opportunity to gross considerably more from a few acres, under a contracted price, than he would from cotton, or in fact, from any other produce he might raise, unless he found a ready market for a very large quantity.

Farm leaders have figured the proposition very closely and the experience of growers in many other places investigated has been that the net return to the planter is several times what he would derive should he devote the same amount of acreage to cotton.

Another feature which is well to bear in mind is that the sales of the contracted produce are made at a time when the farmer usually is not taking in money, unless he is disposing of some produce. The canning plant here will help him get through the summer until such time as his cotton, or other major crops begin to pay dividends. Instead of entering that period of the year broke and in debt, many planters, with the curb market and canning plant functioning here, will be able to begin the fall harvesting with most of their necessities already paid for.

GATEWAYS OF ALABAMA INVITE MANY TO LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Albany and Decatur, being one city in name and in fact, the newspapers that serves that section well, appears under a new name, that of "The Decatur Daily." It merely is an old friend under a new name, and better than ever.

The Decatur Daily also appears with a new slogan on its front page, proclaiming to the world that Decatur is the "Gateway to Alabama." For a considerable part of the United States Decatur is in truth a gateway to this state, for there the Louisville and Nashville main lines enter Alabama, giving Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville and Nashville, and all the country surrounding them, direct communication with this "Heart of the Old South." Also highways over which thousands of tourists come South are directed to Decatur for a crossing of the Tennessee river.

But Alabama has many "gateways." A number of towns near its border invite the visitor from afar to enter there the land of opportunity. Great railway systems come into Alabama at a number of points and each point is a gateway. Anniston, though not the state boundary line is a gateway and thousands of people see here their first glimpse of industrial Alabama. Florence and Sheffield, not far from Albany-Decatur, are gateways. Many people enter Alabama through Huntsville. Eufaula is a gateway from the East, and Mobile from the South.

Still Decatur unquestionably is a "Gateway to Alabama" and an important one, and it is growing with its town. The combination of a good town and a good paper makes for the growth—The Anniston Daily Star.

That's the big fine way to look at it. Up here in North Alabama the flood gates had to be opened. Greater Huntsville, Decatur, Florence and other points for a good long while have been endeavoring to accommodate the crowds as individual centers but now the job

TREAT CANCER EARLY TO INSURE CURE

Greatest Mistake a Victim Can Make Is to Conceal or Ignore First Symptoms of this Dread Disease.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

In Philadelphia a number of physicians interested in cancer met to discuss the disease. No conference could be more important. Do you know what a scourge this is? About 150,000 citizens of the United States die of cancer every year. That is a dreadful record.

Here is what is really dreadful about it—almost every case could be dealt with successfully in the beginning! The trouble about cancer is that everybody is so afraid of the disease he never wants to be told he has it. He goes around, hiding his fears from his family and friends. He worries and frets and loses sleep over his secret, but somehow he feels he cannot reveal it, even to his family physician. This is a great pity. Because, as I have said, almost every case is curable in the early stage. By one system or another, by one method or another, the trouble can be overcome.

One of the speakers at the Philadelphia conference bemoaned the failure of the scientific world to find a serum to counteract cancer. He said, "Once in a while we hear of some cure, but on investigation we are disappointed. It will take many years to test cures now being developed." He continued:

"Therefore, we cannot wait until cancer, the worry is bad for you and may be the forerunner of serious illness. Get rid of your worry by taking good advice."

Answers to Health Queries
H. M. Q.—I am greatly annoyed with an affection of the throat; it seems very irritated and scratchy, with small blisters, and there is also a large spot on one side which looks like pus—is this serious? I also have touches of rheumatism and am very nervous at times.

A.—Probably due to infected and diseased tonsils, removal of which would probably cure the rheumatism. Have your doctor advise after examination.

W. B. Q.—Will bicarbonate of soda, taken three times a day, be harmful if taken for a sick stomach?

A.—Watch your diet, correct constipation and drink plenty of water between meals and you will not have to resort to other means for relief from sick stomach. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. L. H. Q.—What do you advise for sties?

A.—Have your eyes examined, as possibly you need glasses. Make sure to avoid indigestion and poor elimination. Copyright, 1927, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Don't Envy Doctors.
A Modern Devil.
93 Rebukes 80.
Ceiling 100 Miles High.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., 300 For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

RECENTLY a doctor of middle age was murdered, because he refused to answer a late night call. The woman calling him had died. Yesterday, in Brooklyn, a similar shocking tragedy occurred. A doctor, called by the family of a sick family of a sick child was delayed, by some cause unknown. The child died, the doctor arriving twenty minutes after the death was murdered by inmates of the household, his throat cut, in revenge for the child's death.

MEDICINE is a profession not to be envied, or entered upon lightly. 400 years before Christ, Hippocrates, first real doctor, wrote the oath that begins: "I swear by Apollo, the physician, and Asclepius and Hygieia and Panacea, invoking all the gods and goddesses to be my witnesses that I will fulfill this oath and this written covenant to the best of my power and my judgment."

"When he worded that oath binding those that swore to the most severe and loyal public service Hippocrates realized the danger of his profession. He said "I hold it to be physicianically to abstain from treating those who are overwhelmed by disease," meaning those absolutely incurable."

In ancient days the doctor's work was considered by the ignorant a work of magic, and failure may cause resentment and murder."

That Brooklyn tragedy proves the wisdom of Hippocrates' ruling. Getting little thanks or pay, when they succeed, risking defamations or even death when they fail, you need not envy physicians their work.

JOHN WOLLMAN reported to religious sect of old-fashioned views—very fundamentalist, that an evil spirit had taken possession of his wife, 35 years old. That seemed easy to the reverend gentlemen that took the evil spirit in hand.

They knew he had to eat or no food for five days, and kept her tied down to her bed for three days. Prayers were said continuously, and probably that devil would soon have been discouraged.

BUT modernist business men heard about it, released the woman, called in regular doctors and the religious demonstration was spoiled.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW, aged ninety-three, rebukes the young eighty year old Edison for saying—if he ever said it—"the word "God" has no meaning for me."

Depew said in his private car, on the way to Florida, "I am more firmly anchored to the Bible than ever before, and believe implicitly in its teachings and the God it portrays."

EDISON will envy that frame of mind and ask perhaps "which God of the Bible, old testament or new?" The God that ordered his chosen people to kill all, including women and children, and spare not, is different, to mortal understanding, from the God that warned against hurting the little ones. Fortunate are they, Mr. Edison will admit, possessing a faith that makes reasoning unnecessary.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

BY FRED J. WALKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO.—Chicago's flappers can lay claim to being the warmest-blooded specimens in the country if one noted Arctic explorer knows anything about it.
When visiting friends in Chicago recently this explorer happened to ride on one of the double decked buses that ply along the lake shore in direct line of the wintry blasts from the then ice-covered water front.
The bus was crowded and many passengers, including a number of short skirted girls rode "up above," in the wintry atmosphere,
"The next person to reach the pole," said the explorer, "undoubtedly will be a woman if one of the Chicago variety makes the attempt."
Dr. W. L. Bailey, professor of sociology at North western University, believes those who criticize Chicago for its reputed lawlessness are all wrong.
"In view of modern conditions," said Dr. Bailey, "one can say that Chicago has surprisingly little crime. The typically modern city is loosely organized. This loose organization of vastly growing modern business has resulted in an exceptional amount of crimes in the business world and the same is true of political life."

MRS. NELSON ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. J. T. Nelson entertained the Cotaco Literary club on Wednesday afternoon. The interior of her lovely home on Church street was filled with pretty vases of jonquills and ferns.

The subject for study for the afternoon was Cathedrals and the roll call was answered with names of the different cathedrals of the world. During the business hour, Mrs. Nelson explained the nature of the fund that has been asked of the Alabama Federated clubs by Auburn and the club then voted to contribute to this fund next year. The curb market was brought up for discussion and the women pledged co-operation with the farmers and the curb market officials.

Mrs. Hai Mullen read a very fine descriptive paper on "The Vatican and Cathedrals" telling especially of the cathedrals of Italy. Mrs. J. D. Bush and Mrs. Ike Scheer also contributed papers on this subject that proved very instructive.

Refreshments, consisting of chicken salad, sandwiches, hot coffee and mints were served late in the afternoon. Besides the twelve club members enjoying Mrs. Nelson's hospitality, Mrs. Nichols was a guest.

The club will meet Wednesday of next week with Mrs. Hal Mullen at the home of Mrs. Ike Scheer.

SIX HUNDRED CLUB

Mrs. Morris Ford was hostess at the meeting of the Six Hundred club this week at her home on Johnston street, and she had several other guests besides the club members and they were Miss Madolyn Dix, Mrs. L. C. Mayes and Mrs. T. M. Jones, Sr.

After the games at which Mrs. J. G. Woodruff made top score, the hostess served a salad course.

MOTHERS CLUB WILL NOT MEET

The Mothers club will not meet until Friday, February 25th, when Mrs. Lide and Mrs. Summer will be hostesses.

ROOK PARTY

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. C. M. Graham was a rook hostess, entertaining the following at her home on Canal street: Mrs. Hartwell Davis, Mrs. John D. Wyker, Mrs. Andrew Perolio, Mrs. F. S. Hunt, Mrs. Sarah Jeffries, Mrs. J. B. Cassells and Mrs. Will Wyker. A profusion of jonquills added to the attractiveness of the home on this occasion.

The prize offered for highest score was won by Mrs. Will Wyker and the trophy for next highest was presented to Mrs. John D. Wyker, while Mrs. F. S. Hunt received the consolation gift.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Graham, assisted by Mrs. Davis, served delicious refreshments, carrying out the valentine scheme.

ADDIE COX CIRCLE

The Addie Cox Circle of the Decatur Baptist church had a business meeting at the church on Monday afternoon, and it was opened with the devotionals, led by Mrs. J. D. Sharp. Several of the members took part in this service. A very good representation of the members were present to transact business; the most important item being the decision to take up the study of the mission study books. The first study meeting will be the fourth Monday of February at the home of Mrs. G. P. Irwin.

Mrs. W. T. Giles gave a splendid talk on "What Is a Missionary," which was very inspiring as well as interesting.

Y. P. S. L. MEETING

The Young People's Social League of St. John's Episcopal church met this week at the Chapel. After the religious exercises the young people were honored with a talk given by Rev. Malone.

A later delightful lunch was served and enjoyed by the large number present.

The league which was organized only recently, is making rapid strides in its development and promises to be quite a factor in the younger life of the community. All young people of other denominations are cordially invited to join them.

WEDNESDAY LUNCHEON CLUB

The Wednesday Luncheon Club had a most delightful meeting at the Valley Country Club on Wednesday and besides club members those participating in the games were Mrs. J. R. Smiley, Miss Sabine Dupont, Mrs. Frank Lide, Mrs. W. E. Crawford, Miss Elizabeth Brooks, of Huntsville; Mrs. Milton Harvey and Mrs. Sanders Cornter.

Before the games, a delicious luncheon was served at the card tables. The club trophy was won by Mrs. T. A. Caddell and the guest souvenir by Mrs. Lide.

DINNER FOR MRS. ELLIOTT

Mrs. A. E. Humphrey will entertain at dinner on Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. C. B. Elliott who returned this week from an extended visit to her sister, Mrs. Paul Crawford in West Palm Beach, Fla. This courtesy will include seventeen guests.

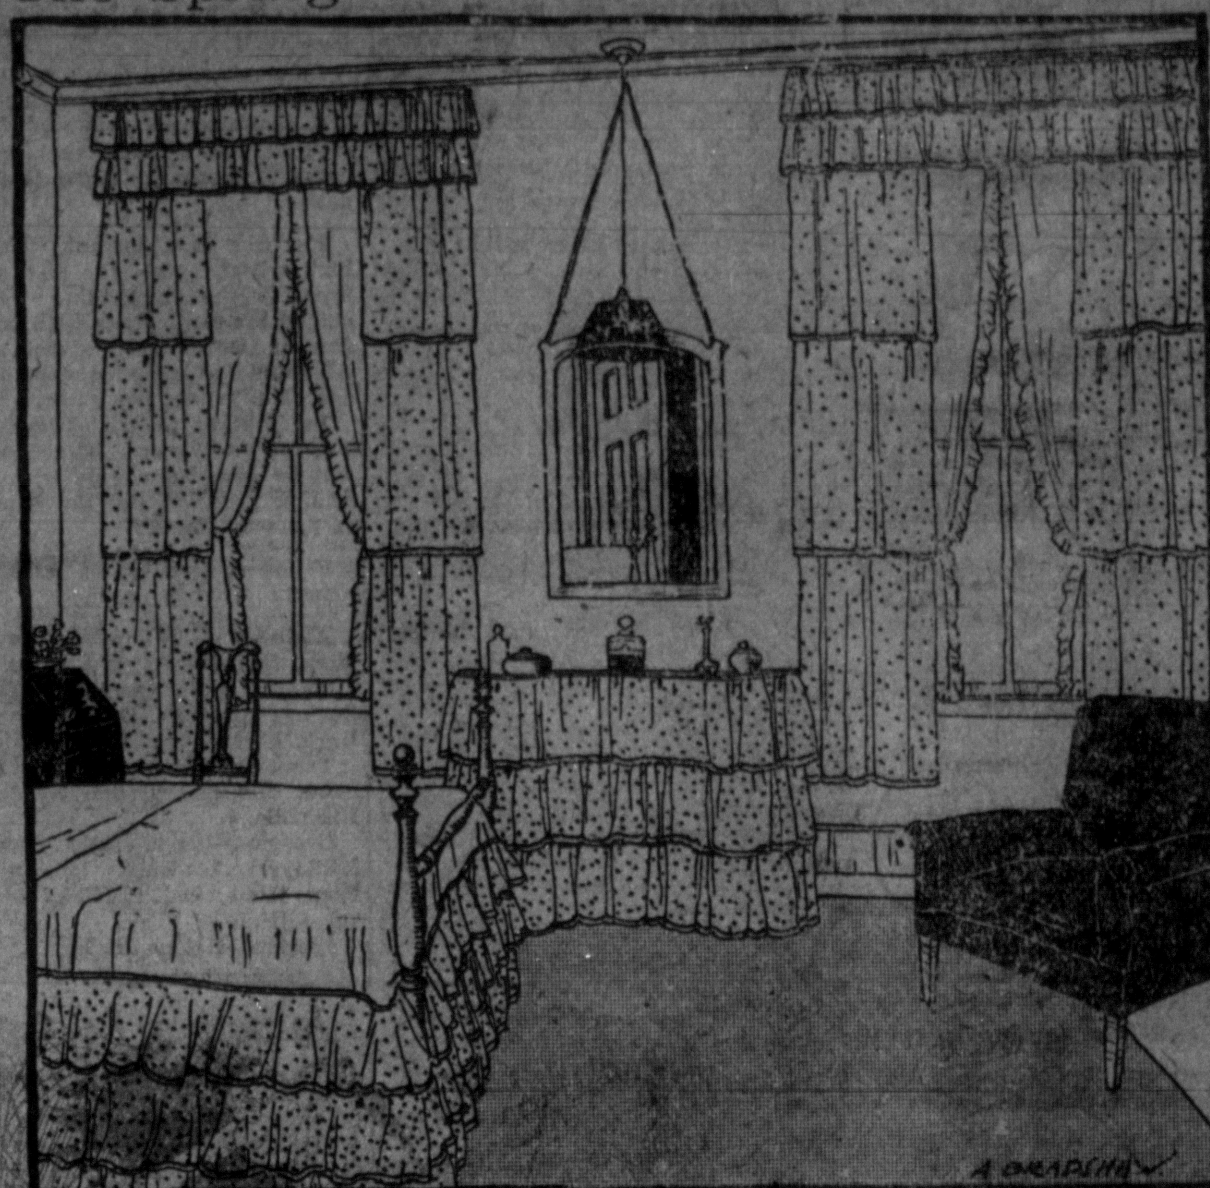

PARTY FOR MRS. NEILL

Mrs. R. G. Cortner will have a bridge party on Thursday afternoon for Mr. Cortner's sister, Mrs. D. R. Neill, of Nashville, Tenn., who is the guest of relatives here. Only intimate friends are to be included.

The Spring Bedroom -- By Annette Bradshaw

THE teen housewife anticipates the Spring. She knows that when the trees begin to blossom and the whole outside world teems with new life she will want to brighten and freshen up her home with a few seasonal changes.

A charming way to dress the bedroom for this gay season is pictured above. The drapes are of white or pastel dotted swiss to harmonize with the color of the wall. Dotted swiss is a crisp, fresh and cool-looking material that lends cheer to the room and allows the sunshine to pour in through the windows. One deep chair upholstered in plain glazed chintz in contrasting color is very effective, and gives an additional touch of comfort. The ruffled drapes on window dressing table and bedspread make this room charmingly and entirely feminine.

PARIS.—"Cake Sylvia" makes a good dessert.

Beat the whites of four eggs into a firm "snow" and incorporate one-fourth pound of crushed almonds and a little flour. Make three roundels of the paste on a buttered pan and bake ten minutes in a moderate oven.

Arrange the three cakes one on top of the other and spread between a thick cream made with butter and moka. Cover the whole with glaze sugar and serve with a cream-sauce flavored with kirsch.

LONDON FASHION NOTES

By International News Service

LOS ANGELES.—Screen stars and players will wear higher french heels than ever before this spring.

A year ago an inch and a half heel was considered high. Last season the two and a half inch heel was a la mode. This year, Alleen Pringle, Claire Windsor and Joan Crawford, all Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer players, sponsor the four inch heels!

"The higher the heel the more dainty the foot looks," says Miss Pringle. "And it's all nonsense about high heels causing foot trouble. I have worn French heels ever since I was sixteen years old without harming my feet."

Claire Windsor declares that the extremely high heel will not be confined to the evening pump. "Four inch heels enhance the beauty of the street ensemble," says Miss Windsor. "Street gowns are more sophisticated this year than before. They demand a smart, ultra sophisticated shoe. The four inch heel is the last word in sophistication."

Jewels and mirrors have replaced flowers and ribbons at least as far as milady's hats are concerned! Norma Shearer is the first to introduce to Hollywood and to American women the fad for wearing novelty bonnets. Her hats this year are all small, with brims narrower than ever, but the crushed crowns are studded with brilliant jewels in all colors and tiny six sided mirrors, sewn in place with silver and gold cord.

PASTEURIZATION ASSURES SUPPLY OF PERFECT MILK

Decatur Creamery Supplies Grade "A" Milk From Inspected Dairy Farms.

The term "pasteurization" originated from the experiment of the eminent chemist, Louis Pasteur, in France. From 1860 to 1864, in experiments on the "diseases" of wine, he found that heating for a few moments at a temperature from 122 degrees to 140 degrees F. was sufficient to prevent abnormal fermentations in wine. The application of this process gave rise to the term "pasteurization." As applied to milk, for direct consumption, pasteurization should mean a process of heating to 145 degrees F. and holding at that temperature for 30 minutes. This is followed by rapid cooling.

The pasteurization of milk when properly performed affords protection from pathogenic organism. Surveys definitely show that pasteurization has reduced greatly the rate of infantile death from intestinal disturbance. On the other hand, modern pasteurization does not destroy the natural helpful organism. No disease epidemic has ever been traced properly to pasteurized milk.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of public health, Chicago, says in this connection:

"Since the institution of an order in 1916 that all milk (99 percent of Chicago milk is pasteurized) except certified be pasteurized, there has not been a single case of contagion traced to milk supply, a record that speaks volumes for the efficiency of pasteurization as a public measure."

Pasteurization is not a resort to make unclean milk clean. It is a final step to safeguard and make doubly sure that clean milk is safe milk. Dr. Lafayette B. Mendel of Yale, recognized as one of the world's greatest chemists, says: "Clean milk is not necessarily safe milk, nor are all milk bacteria essentially harmful. I have become convinced that at the present time greater safety lies in the exclusion of dangerous micro-organisms by effective pasteurization, and that pasteurized milk can be employed under conditions that are in no respect detrimental but rather advantageous to public health."

It is interesting to note the extent of pasteurization in the United States. A study of available figures reveal that in 1915 milk was pasteurized in 62 percent of the cities with population above 10,000 and in 1924 in 89 percent of such cities.

Intelligent supervision of the pasteurizing process is absolutely necessary, and cannot be provided unless there is thorough knowledge of primary object and principles involved. The primary object is the destruction of any disease-producing bacteria and handling in such manner that the milk cannot be reinfected. When this is accomplished it is found that a large percentage of the bacteria in milk are destroyed and its "keeping" qualities greatly improved.

Grade "A" Pasteurized Milk is bottled by Decatur Ice Cream & Creamery Co. In their modern plant. It is delivered to the homes by H. T. Cook & Sons and is sold by Mrs. Alexander's Milk Depot.

Clopton's Grade "A" Pasteurized Milk—Clopton's Dee-Cee Creamery Butter and Clopton's Ice Cream are recognized as the "Cream of the Tennessee Valley."

PALE & PEAKED

Texas Lady Was Advised by Her Mother To Take Cardui, Which She Did With Good Results.

Hamilton, Texas.—Mrs. Gladys Pottvin, of this city, says: "At times I suffered awfully with pains across my back and through my sides. I would have to go to bed and stay two or three days at a time. It was very worrisome. I managed to keep going, but I did not enjoy myself at all."

"One day my mother remarked on how bad I looked. She said: 'You look so pale and peaked, why don't you take a bottle of Cardui?' She had taken it herself a number of times, and it had always improved her health, so she thought I had better try it."

"I got the Cardui and began taking it, and from the first dose or two I could see a change for the better. The first thing I noticed was that my appetite was improved. I began to be hungry and I enjoyed my meals. I slept better at night. My rest was so much quieter that I got the benefit from it. I kept on with the Cardui and took it for several months. The pains in my back and sides grew less until they finally quit bothering me."

PARIS.—(INS)—"No self-respecting woman will dare to be seen in a skirt by the time the year 1927 rolls around," declares one of Paris' most important fashion leaders.

In thirty years, the woman who still clings to skirts will look even more curious than the one who still persists in wearing ankle-length ones these days, according to the prophets. Even the abbreviated bits of garments which come under this nomenclature, will be as difficult to find as bustles and shoulder-pads.

It seems inevitable that trousers take the place of skirts following the universal craze for sports, jazz-dancing, etc. They will be a kind of modified Oxford Bags in exotic silks, with woollen for daytime wear and flowing Turkish affairs caught in at the ankles for formal evening gowns. Some will be cut like those favored by the men, though somewhat wider and more flowing in line.

Striped skirting silk will not be used but the striped effects will be there, obtained by a more complex process of alternating bands of color. Patterns of intersecting bars, dots, stripes or circles on a background which is either speckled indefinitely, striped or mottled in shaded tones, are the latest in the fashion line. The favorite backgrounds are black, grey or beige. Geometric designs of lozenges, squares and triangles, as well as plaids are being brought out in soft taffetas and alpaca, but the plaids are not the old-fashioned ones, daring in color and unbroken in line.

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery, with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and in libits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, whooping cough, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Collegian Dodges Wrestling Game; Says "Profession" Not "On Square"

By International News Service
AUSTIN, Tex.—Wrestling, as done by professionals, is too crooked to offer any inducement to Ralph Hammond, National Intercollegiate champion, according to the youthful wrestler in an interview here.

As a boy, Hammond was rather handicapped in his athletic endeavors, his mother considering he was too delicate a lad to indulge in "rough sports," he said.

When he got away from the maternal apron-strings on entering college, however, Hammond decided to forget a little about home advice and the result was gratifying for he made a sensational success in track work and wrestling.

Out of the Pacific coast last year, Hammond was adjudged the best material for the Olympics next year, and he has a place on the team practically cinched. He has thrown every college contender, at his weight, in the United States.

Wrestling as a career, however, has no attractions for the Hugo, Okla., boy as he considers it isn't "on the square."

Fifty per cent skill, twenty-five per cent strength and the rest speed—that's wrestling, according to Hammond.

Cotton States Tourney Opens Today; Four Southern States Send Fives

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Sixteen high and prep school quintets, the cream of Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Tennessee basketball teams, are here today for the annual Cotton States invitation tournament, with the president's cup the trophy for the winning five.

Preliminary games will be played today, the semi-finals will be held tomorrow, and the final will be played Saturday.

Alabama is represented in the tourney with seven teams, Georgia has five quintets entered, three Tennessee aggregations will play and Florida is represented by one five.

All of the entrants are teams of championship calibre in their respective districts, and several had experience in previous cotton states meets.

The Red Level high school quintet, which has gone through the season without defeat, has been ranked by experts as one of the outstanding Alabama bidders for first honors.

Ranking alongside Red Level in strength is Millport High and Anniston High, both of which have gone through victorious seasons.

Tallapoosa County High, Springville High, DeKalb County High and Lanette complete the roster of Alabama's entries in the classic.

Montezuma High and Vienna High both with enviable records, bring the strongest Georgia opposition to the tournament. The Vienna five enters the meet with a record of sixteen victories for the season.

Georgia Military Academy will make its fifth bid in six years for the Cotton States championship. The Georgia cadets have emerged victorious from two of these attempts, winning the 1923 and 1926 meets.

Darlington prep and Dalton, north Georgia entrants, complete the roster of Georgia's opposition. Both teams enter the tourney with enviable records.

Montgomery-Bell Academy of Nashville, heads the Tennessee invasion, with a record of wins from some of Tennessee's strongest basketball fives.

Columbia Military Academy, which went to the semi-finals in last year's tournament, and Castle Heights high of Lebanon, also will carry Tennessee's standard into action.

Florida's lone entrant, Malone high school, enters the meet with probably the outstanding record among the contestants with no defeats in two straight seasons. The Alligator five has piled up an average of 47 points per game.

In addition to the president's cup for the winner, the runner-up will be awarded a cup, with two smaller trophies for the winners of the semi-finals.

Following is a list of basketball teams entered in the meet:

- Alabama—Tallapoosa County High, Dadeville; Red Level High, Millport; Anniston High, Springville; DeKalb County High, Fort Payne; Lanette High, Tennessee—Castle Heights, Lebanon; Montgomery-Bell Academy, Nashville.
- Georgia—Vienna High, Georgia Military Academy, Darlington Prep, Rome; Dalton High, Montezuma High.
- Florida—Malone High.

Plainsmen Looked Upon As Champs

The Auburn Plainsmen have become more than formidable on the basketball boards this year, they have become champions so far as the Southern title fight is concerned. The Auburn Tiger has swept through to eleven straight victories, including wins over Georgia Tech, L. S. U. and Tulane, regarded as leaders until they met the Tiger in cage togs.

Auburn plays Vanderbilt tonight, the result having much to do with the standing in the conference. Vandy has a strong five this year.

Members of the Central Baseball Committee met last night in the directors room of the Central National Bank and decided to offer season books of tickets for spring training baseball games here to local fandom at a cost of $10, this amount representing a reduction of ten per cent from the straight admission prices to be charged for single games.

The committee also decided it would be necessary to charge $1.00 for the Southern and International league contests and $1.50 for the two major league contests. The season books, however, will permit admission to all of the contests.

U. S. Advertising Pointers Given

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(INS)—"Europe is coming to America for inspiration and leadership in the advertising field," C. K. Woodbridge, president of the International Advertising Association declared while attending the convention of the association here. "Europe is intensely interested in what we are doing in advertising in America," asserted Woodbridge, who, as president of the international association, has made several trips through continental Europe to aid in building up advertising organizations there. Advertising in France, however, Mr. Woodbridge said, was still in the "stunt" stage. "Progress in France has not been as rapid. France still lacks the American principal of cooperation in obtaining the best results. But all Europe is rapidly realizing that advertising has played a great part in making the United States the commercial and industrial leader of the world and is more and more coming to America for leadership and advice."

British Birth Rate Still On Decline

By International News Service LONDON.—Britain's birth-rate continues to decline. Figures made available by the Registrar for Births, Deaths and Marriages in England and Wales reveal that the birth-rate for 1926 was 0.5 per 1,000 population below that of 1925, which was the lowest in the world. Coinsborough, a mining village near Doncaster, rang the bell during 1926 with a birth rate of 35.06 per 1,000 inhabitants.

Forty Billions In N. Y. Property Hang On Record In Old Bible

By International News Service
DECATUR, Ill. — A family Bible, containing the record of the descendants of John Allen Edwards, a sturdy colonist who in bygone days tilled the soil where now the proud skyscrapers of the city of New York tower into the sky, is the hope around which ninety-five persons in various portions of the United States will lay claim to a 160 acre tract in the heart of Gotham, now valued at $40,000,000. Nine persons of this city have agreed to co-operate with 86 others in America to fight for their claim. They have organized the National Scotch Edwards Heirs Association, with headquarters at Louisville, Ky.

Seek Settlement.
The members of this association, believing themselves direct descendants of the Manhattan pioneer, propose to seek a settlement with the present owners of the priceless property.

Louis Aldrich, of this city owns the Bible, containing the "family tree." It was handed down to him by Robert, son of John Edwards. The claimants all are confident that the record proves their direct descent from the sturdy Manhattanite. An important cog in the chain of the claimants is one Henry Landreth, for whom a widespread search is being made. No one has been found who can throw any light on his whereabouts or where he last lived.

The Edwards heirs maintain that the Gotham tract was leased 104 years ago to an English syndicate for 100 years. On expiration of this lease four years ago, the claimants contend, the title to the property should have reverted back to the son of Edwards, who executed the lease, and his heirs and genealogical successors. Edward's son, who signed the deal, threw further complications into the deal by dying intestate.

Costly Litigation

A long and costly litigation is expected by the Edwards heirs and they are pooling their funds to meet the costs. They do not dispute the fact that before the huge buildings now occupying the tract were erected experts passed upon the title to the land and pronounced it perfect. They also concede that the statute of limitations will work against them.

Nevertheless, they have faith in their claim and are willing to gamble the expenses of litigation against a hoped for fortune if their claims are upheld.

Deering Will Is Filed In Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 17.—(AP)—The will of Charles Deering, former farm machinery manufacturer whose estate is variously estimated to be worth between $10,000,000 and $40,000,000, was filed for probate late today. The chief beneficiaries are Mrs. Deering, and his three children, who are to receive the residue of the estate after all bequests have been paid. The will contains bequests of approximately $1,000,000 included among which are $500,000 for Northwestern university, $240,000 for the Wesley Memorial hospital Chicago, and a trust fund of $100,000 for the Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami. The estate will be administered as a trust fund. The will names as executors his brothers, James Deering and Richard Howe, of New York, a brother-in-law, but as James Deering is dead, only Mr. Howe planned to qualify as sole executor.

Life Sentence In Drug Craze Death

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Life imprisonment was the verdict returned yesterday afternoon in the trial of John Milburn, ex-convict, charged with the murder of Charles Hays, Owensboro policeman.

Milburn was charged with shooting Hays Feb. 25, 1926, while under the influence of a narcotic. Two other officers and a young woman also were wounded by him.

LAWRENCE COUNTY HAS FARM AGENT

Hollingsworth Will Begin Farm Work Immediately

By E. M. HODSON
Special to the Daily.

MOULTON, Ala., Feb. 17.—After long deliberation and conferences with a number of leading farmers of the county, the Lawrence County Board of Revenue, Tuesday employed C. L. Hollingsworth as county agent to begin work at once. Mr. Hollingsworth, accompanied by J. T. High, district agent for extension work from Auburn and the Federal Government, came to Moulton Tuesday and Mr. Hollingsworth began work Wednesday. For a year the county has been without an agent and many farmers have felt the need of a man for the work. The Lawrence county farm bureau is cooperating with the county in the employment of the agent, furnishing an office and equipment and a stenographer. Mrs. Hilda Cowan has accepted the secretaryship for a month. Mr. Hollingsworth comes recommended as one of the best agents in the State; for some time has been in charge of the work in Clarke county where he has made a noted success; prior to his work in Clarke county he did good work in Lauderdale county as agent. It is understood that Mr. Hollingsworth will move his family to Moulton at once.

Jonquils and daffodils, plum blossoms and peach, are giving the farms the air of spring time and the more so since the sun has had charge of the atmosphere this week throughout the county, with favorable weather through the week the ground on most of the farms will be sufficiently dry to allow field work to begin.

With sunshine numerous road projects are having work resumed and the county faces another year to be noted for its improvement in surfaced and well graded highways.

Cotton Figures Are Made Public

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Cotton seed crushed in the six months period to January 31st, totalled 4,260,344 tons, compared with 3,816,300 in the same period a year ago and cotton seed on hand at mills January 31, totalled 1,029,646 tons compared with 1,098,364 a year ago, the census bureau announced today.

Linters produced 695,650 bales, compared with 712,645 and on hand 221,200 bales compared with 187,655.

Near Beer And Soft Drinks No Cure For America's Thirst; Brewery Quits

By International News Service
CINCINNATI, O.—The burning thirst of average Americans can not be quenched by near-beer and other soft drinks, in the opinion of officers of the John Hauck Brewing company, which will cease operating here on March 3.

The John Hauck Brewing company—which name was synonymous with good beer back in days before the Volstead act—once had a huge force of men working day and night in order to meet buyers' demands of more than 500,000 barrels of beer a year.

But, according to the officials of the company, production of "alleg-

Your Income Tax

No. 28
Bad debts may be deducted from gross income in computing net income only for the year in which they are ascertained to be worthless and charged off the books of the taxpayer. The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the propriety of any deduction claimed for bad debts.

Where the surrounding circumstances show that a debt is worthless and uncollectible, and that legal action, in all probability, would not avail, proof of these facts is sufficient of their worthlessness.

Unpaid loans made to relatives or friends with little or no expectation of their return are not deductible, but are regarded as gifts. If a debt is forgiven, it can not be claimed.

A valid debt proved to be worthless is not always a proper deduction. For example, unpaid amounts representing wages, salaries or rentals, or similar items of taxable income are not allowed as deductions unless included in the

Titles May Return In The English Dominion

OTTAWA.—(INS)—Should Canada, which has been omitted from the King of England's honor list as the result of the passing of a bill for the abolition of titles, return to the system?

This question finds a divided Canada and, with interest on the subject shoving it to the foremost topic of the day on this side of the international boundary line, it is said that the subject will likely be threshed out on the floor of Parliament.

Premier Howard Ferguson, who scored a victory of the "wets" in Ontario, is the champion for the return of the title-honor system for Canadians who distinguished themselves in services for the Dominion.

The first man that Premier Ferguson would nominate is the retiring lieutenant governor, Harry Cockshutt. He played a prominent

How children quickly Gain robust health

For weak, puny, inactive children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date pharmacists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, with their wealth of vitamins.

Children love them as they candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at Caddell Drug Co., and druggists everywhere. Try them for 30 days and if you are not happily satisfied with the test get your money back. But demand McCoy's—it pays to get the genuine.—adv.

Plain Facts About Investments REFUNDING BOND ISSUES

By W. S. COUSINS, International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK.—(INS)—Many of the new issues of bonds sold to investors since the turn of the years have been for the purpose of raising funds to pay off other bonds which are either due at this time, or callable on favorable terms. Thus high coupon bonds are being retired and low coupon bonds being substituted for them.

This is an inevitable development of an easy money period and one that is extremely beneficial to the corporations. Should the pendulum swing further in the direction of easy money there will be wholesale housecleaning of the high-coupon obligations by many corporations and a substitution of new bonds issued on much more favorable terms from the borrower's standpoint.

In the case of strong and highly rated corporations, and additional quantity of the bonds could be sold, with the proceeds of which additions could be made to plants and manufacturing facilities sufficient to add to earning capacity in the amount of $200,000 annually. In that way the profit, or saving, on the new financing would be immediate, and not delayed.

Many of the corporations are today reaping the benefit of the wise policies and skillful financing adopted in the tight money situation which prevailed in this country between 1921 and late 1923. During that period millions of dollars of bond obligations, reached their due dates, and to have to refuted them at the prevailing rates of interest would have meant the issuance of new bonds at extremely high coupon rates, imposing a heavy burden for many years to come.

The corporation managers, recognizing that the tight money situation was a temporary matter one of the consequences of the disruption of the war, declined to complete their financing on any such basis. Instead, they arranged through their bankers either for the issuance of long term bonds with callable features, or the sale of short term notes, even though borrowing rates were considerably above the "going rate" for money.

The callable bonds extended to the corporation the right to call in and pay their sale. Thus a 20-year bond callable in five years at 105 and sold at 98 might easily be considered as an attractive investment, while affording the corporation relief against paying a high rate of interest on funded debt over a long period in the event of a decided decline in the "going rate" for money.

part in the development of the province and there are many who would support a move to obtain this distinguished Canadian a title.

On the other hand the man who looms up as chief opponent to the return of the title system is former Attorney General Nickle. Nickle broke with the Ferguson government on its "wet" platform and ran against a Ferguson candidate, but lost.

Some see the return to the title system another booty for the political powers, while others contend that as the result of recent divorce court scents and the disastrous marriages involving titles and marriage Canada would be far better to "carry on" as she is at the present time and forget all about titles.

Premier Ferguson has many supporters in his plan to obtain the return of titles for Canadians, and if he has his way George Young, winner of the Catalina swim would now be a titled youth.
